

THE MEN WHO WEAR THE BLUE.

I was once an Airman, a soldier wearing Blue,
I served my Queen and Country and to them I was true.
I served in foreign places and saw the world unfold,
And now that I am older, this story I have told.

I see the generations, who wear the cloth of Blue,
The ones who held the skies above ~ the ones we call the Few.
The newer generation have that quality so rare,
To give their life with honour and a courage that they dare.

And so on the Eleventh day we honour with our love,
The men who fought for Freedom, as they flew the skies above.
Remember all those Airmen, and the ones we call the Few,
They are the greatest fighting Men ~ who wear the cloth of Blue.

Dedicated to the men and women of the ROYAL AIR FORCE, who died defending our Freedoms.
