

Visit to Dover Castle and the RAF Memorial - 3rd July

We were fortunate to arrive early to avoid the queues for the newly opened tunnels and then enjoyed all that the site had to offer from the Church, the museum, the castle, the grounds and of course the NAAFI. We all thoroughly enjoyed the visit with many saying that a second visit was warranted because nobody got to see everything of interest.

En route home, we paused to visit the RAF Memorial on Dover cliffs that have recently been featured on the television. It was a moving experience and helped round off a fantastic day.
